

51 Licensing

Licensing is an important legal part of software development. On one side, it's important how we license the software created by our own (customer project SW, open source SW, etc.) and on the other side, it's important that we respect the licenses of software and products that we use in our software.

Licensing of HSE Software

TBD

Use of Software in Our Projects

We have to respect the license of software, software components and other resources (images, icons, sounds, ...) from other sources (websites, VIPM, open source projects, ...).

Proprietary Projects

Open Source Projects

Open source projects can have a big variety of licenses with very different rights and obligations. The most important open sources licenses and what we need to consider is listed below.
